Resignation of Gen. Cass. Referring to the rumors afloat in reg o the resignation of Hon. Lewis Cass, the Vashington Constitution says:

Washington Constitution says:

To avoid all misconstruction or misstatement of the reasons which caused this event, we have taken pains to ascertain the true cause. It is not that General Cass differed from the President in regard to any portion of his late Message. On the great question of coercing a State to remain in the Union by military force, the President and General Cass were perfectly united in opinion. The difficulty arose from the fact that General Cass insisted that a naval and military force should be sent immediately to Charleston to reinforce the forts in that harbor; and the President was of opinion that there was no necessity for any such measure, in order to secure the forts against attack. This being the President's conviction, he would not sanction a movement which might lead to collision and bloodshed in the present excited state of feeling in South Carolina, and other Southern States, and at a time when every friend of the Union is using his best efforts to prevent its dissolution, or, if that be net possible, to avert the adoption of any measure which would render its reconstruction. ossible, to avert the adoption of the which would render its received.

The Washington City correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says a sharp correspondence passed between the President and the retiring Secretary; but this is mere rumor. The correspondence will doubtless be published in a few days.

Interesting to Divorced Wives.—The New York Court of Common Pleas, Judge Brady presiding, has decided that in cases of divorce the female side of the house must pay its own debts from the moment the decree of divorce is rendered. The ease is that of Mrs. Forrest, who resisted payment of a claim for dry goods amounting to $552, on the ground that she was then the wife of Mr. Forrest, the question turning upon the point of appeal from the decree of divorce still pending. The court decided that the appeal was only for the purpose of settling the question of alimony.

The Union of the States is at the present moment threatened with alarming and immediate danger—panic and distress of a fearful character prevail throughout the land—our laboring population are without employment, and consequently deprived of the means of earning their bread—indeed, hope seems to have deserted the minds of men. Let us, then, with deep contrition and penitent sorrow, unite in humbling ourselves before the Most High, in confessing our individual and national sins, and in acknowledging the justice of our punishment. Let us implore Him to remove from our hearts that false pride of opinion which would impel us to persevere in wrong for the sake of consistency, rather than yield a just submission to the unforeseen exigencies by which we are now surrounded. Let us, with deep reverence beseech Him to restore the friendship and good will which prevailed in former days among the people of the several States; and, above all, to save us from the horrors of civil war and "blood-guiltiness." The steamer Massachusetts, which is now at Long Wharf, will not make another trip to the "Palmetto Republic" for the present. The steamer South Carolina, on her return from Charleston, will probably remain at her berth in this city until affairs assume a brighter aspect.

There is now no freight to or from Charleston. Two of the four steamers which usually ply between New York and Charleston have hauled off, and the two which are running do not pay expenses.—

The Philadelphia line to Charleston has been temporarily discontinued, and the Baltimore line to that port is poorly patronized. ANOTHER FIRE—CALHOUN BLOCK DESTROY-ED—SINGULAR FATALITY.

About half-past eleven o'clock last night fire was discovered in the fourth story of the Calboun Block, directly opposite the Overton Block, which was burned yesterday. A first it seemed but a speck, but it kept increasing, and soon the roof over that portion of the building was in flames. The firemen, already tired out by their vigorous exertions during the day, were slow in responding to the alarm. The steam fire engine we waited for two hours to see in vain. When the firemen did at last arrive there was no water in the elstern, and they were forced to remain idle and witness the destruction of one of the tern, and they were forced to remain and witness the destruction of one of fluest blocks in the city. The fire gradu spread, resisting the puerile efforts forth to stay it. When we left the set at half past two o'clock this morning, destruction of the entire edifice seer certain. The lower portion of the bring was occupied by Smith & Co., dry ge and clothing merchants, and by H. Farnsworth & Co., druggists. Their loi it is impossible to estimate.

The Calhoun Bleek was built two. rainworth & Co., uruggists. Their losses it is impossible to estimate.

The Calhoun Block was built two years since, by Col. W. R. Hunt, at a cost of $54,000. It was insured for $30,000, $10,000 in the Bluff City, $10,000 in the Hernando, $5,000 in the DeSoto, and $5,000 with Chadwick.

stantial and frequented blocks on Main street have been swept away. The loss cannot fall short of $250,000, and will most probably exceed that amount. While we write, the utmost consternation prevails. The origin of the fire is uncertain. Some think it was the work of an incendiary, while others assert it caught from the Overton Block. Ere our next issue the mystery may be unraveled.

THE INCIDENTS ened to hew the whole party out. Bail in $100 for three months.

Bailed Out.—D. Shockley, who was committed on the 15th inst., in default of $100 for three months, was brought in from the workhouse and gave bail.

All the ceremonial marks of respect were paid him, the lack of which at his andience last year gave occasion of offense to all the foreign embassies. This was the first audience granted since that time. Mr. H. was escorted to the palace, or the buildings now occupied as such since the fire, by a large and imposing retinue of Japanese officials.

The streets were crowded with many ens of thousands of people to witness the procession. They were restrained from ressing upon the cortege by ropes streeth along the route, and the utmost order realled. Mr. H. was attended by the cusmary insignia of high rank, sword bears, plumes of cock's feathers on tall poles, teeeding the norimon in which he rode, is horse, handsomely caparisoned, followed the norimon, led by grooms. Public Sentiment in the Free States. The election of LINCOLN and mere possession of the Government is not regarded as a final triumph by the Black Republi-

This would probably satisfy the politicians; but the politicians are not the people; and in the North, as in the South, sponsible for the political occurrences of

The politicians of the North, not being with the offices; but to retain these, they must continue to cater to the anti-slavery sentiment of the people; and that will grow and become stronger and more impracticable and exacting year by year in the future, as it has in the past.

The Northern people have been educated to believe that slavery is a Ela before God, a foul blot on the escutcheon of the country-a national al s.igma and indelible disgrace; and as citizens of the country in which it exists. they feel, to some extent, individually re-Pronsible for its continuance; and despite titutional restrictions and legal barriers, they will aim at its extinction. Their fathers or grandfathers were slaveholders or citizens of slaveholding States; and though slavery has been abolished in the States now free, the last generation of men in them were not so generally hostile to the institution, because they knew by experience or tradition something of the workings of the system. The present generation in those States know nothing of elavery. The mass of them never saw a negro slave, and have never met with those who have seen them. Their knowledge of slavery is derived exclusively through such mediums as Uncle Tom's Cabin and books of similar character, and the lectures, and sermons, and speeches of men who act as though they deem it a sacred duty to mis represent Southern society, and mislead and misintorm the Northern mind.

The people of the North are fixed in ility to slavery and slave owners and slave States; and the politicians of those States could not change that sentiment if they would. Lincoln was elected by the people of the North because he represented an idea which is become a part of themselves; and should be fail to live up to that idea, they will raise up to fill his place four years hence some one who will not bend nor swerve from it one hair's breadth, though a nation's existence and the happiness of millions were the price of carrying it out. The members of Congress and of State Legislatures and incumbents of other offices in the North were elected to oppose and war on slavery in their respective spheres; and should they, erany of them, cower before the storm that is raised and the prospects ahead, it will cost them their political lives, and they know it. Hence we expect to see no concessio made to the just demands of the South at this time. The constituencies of those in the North who have it in their power to do something, will not permit them to do stice, for nothing more is asked. The merchants and traders of Philadelphia, and New York, and Cincinnati, may hold ont the olive branch; but the voters, the thousands who rolled up the immense majorities for I INCOLN in Pennsylvania, and New York, and Ohio, have not changed their sentiments since the election-they yet believe that slavery is wrong, that it onght to be exterminated, and that it is the sacred mission of the Black Republican party to rid the country of this evil; and the Wades, and the Camerons, and the Kings, who represent these States in the United States Senate, know this fact, and to maintain their hold in the people's bearts, and keep their places, they fulminate their anathemas against the South and tell us there can be no compromise.

Hon. BENJAMIN F. WADE, United States Senator from Ohio, made an elaborate speech in the Senate on Monday. Mr. WADE is an able and influential member of his party. His name was prominently pressed for the Chicago nomination. His speech was the result of serious reflection and frequent consultations with the leadas expressive of the sentiments of a maority of the Black Republican Senators. He met the issues boldly and defiantly, and announced with great distinctness that "the day of compromise is at an ena""it is absolutely rediculous to talk about them." In short, as far as we can judge from the is foolish and absurd in the extreme. It telegraphic report, the tone of his speech is quite plain from this that the Union is is, "submission or war!" and it was ap. ded and is spproved by his party three-fourths can dissolve it whether the friends in the Senate and elsewhere.

The Right of Secess Editors Louisville Courier: As the right secession is a question presented to the minde of the American people for the first time in a practical form, demanding their decision, and as I am firmly of the opinion that it would be to the interest of the people of every Etate to have it established beyond the possibility of a doubt, I avail the right and power to expel a member immyself of the invitation you have so generously extended to the public to discuss it through the columns of your excellent paper, to lay before your readers and the public my views in regard to it, hoping that, though unworthy of a question of so much practical importance, they may contribute some little towards its set tlement. After much study and calm reflection, with all the assistance I could derive from the writings of those who have devoted their whole lives to the study of govern ment, we have come to the conclusion that a State has a perfect right to secede whenever she thinks it necessary for her peace prosperity, and happiness. We believe that connected with this question are the arest and most important rights of man. We believe that to establish a contrar principle would be to establish a principl fraught with consequences inimical to ci ization, and at which the most hardene wretch might well stand aghast. We be lieve that if every man in America under stood thoroughly the principles the right of secession involves, and their bearing apon society, our prosperity, our great ness, and our happiness as a nation would be increased to an incalculable extent, and those causes which create jealousies, hear burnings, and divisions amongst us would be almost wholly destroyed, and we would be left with "a union of hearts and a union of hands," as well as "a union

Perhaps a majority of the people of each of lakes and a union of lands."

Northern State do not (owing to their never having studied the question) believ in the right of secession, and to this fact as we have hinted, are to be ascribed mo of the evils that afflict the body politic If the prosperity and happiness of the free States depend upon the prosperity and happiness of the slave States, it is their inter est to cultivate our favor and strength the ties that bind us together; and if the people of the free States knew that we ha a right to secede, they would do nothing to alienate our love, retard our prosperity and sever the ties of friendship, gratitude and interest that make us one great na tion. But owing to their belief that these States are irrevocably bound together, for weal or for woe, they avail themselves of their numerical strength to better their ondition at our expense. They think that we cannot of a right go out of the Union, and they also think that we think so too, and that we will not go out for fear of being whipped and forced back again.

ecessity of remunerating us, they cer The people of the North, it is obvious do not want the South to secede, because such a thing would almost bankrupt them; and if they knew we had a right to secode. and would secede if mistreated by them they would not insult us, wound our feelings, stop our progress, and drive us out of the Union. They doubtless fear seces ion on our part, but owing to their be lieving we have no right to do such a thing. right to force us back again if we did se ede, their fears are insufficient to induce them to respect our right, and treat us as equals, whose friendsbip and love were worth courting and whose enmity was to and deprived of our equality. If they can receive the blessings which result from a

We know that a conviction of what is righ will not always prevent a man from doing will. There are a few individuals who what is right and wrong, but the great mass of mankind will not. A majority must rule, and consequently, if a majority of the people of each State believed in the right of secession, there would be no at tempt made, in the event of a State se eeding, to force it back into the Union .-Thus, we see the people of the North would not, so long as we are of service to them, mistreat us, if the right of secession was a settled question. If they held and understood the principle of secession, they would, when obedience to the Constitution interfered with thier conscien and honor, tell us so, and on what conditions they would remain with us. If to alter the Constitution to suit them would injure us less than to let them secede, w would do so. The argument that, if we establish the right of secession, we weaken the bonds of the Union, because, if a State has a right to secede, it will secede, is unworthy of choolboy, whose object is to confound and out argue his opponent, much less a state nan, whose object is to elicit truth or It does not follow as a consequence that a State will secede, because it has a perfect right to do so. Previously to the formation of the Union, the States were separate and free to act as they pleased; and, if they would separate because they have a right to do so, the Union never would have been formed. The truth is, the Union is preserved, not because we cannot consistent ly, with the principles of right, dissolve but simply, because it is best for us that it should be preserved common object in view, and if they ar dependant upon each other for many of their cherish blessings, and mutually ben-efit each other, they will stay together, and help, love, and defend each other. I care not how perfect their right to separate may be, and how easy a separation could be effected. We have just as much right to say husband and wife live together be cause they have no right to separate, as we have to say that these States stay together because they have no right to sep arate; or, as we have to say that husband and wife would separate if they had a right would separate, if they possessed the right When husband and wife mutually assist and love, and are proud of each other, and find in each other's company inexaustible sources of pleasure, nothing in the world could induce them to separate; and to their living together of a choice, lovingly, and promoting each others happiness, th union owes its glory. When husband and wife are kept together merely by the force of public opinion, when they hate each other, and are sources of misery to each other, and when they want to separate, we pronounce the union scandalous. It is the same with the Union of the States. It owes its glory to the same causes. If it promotes the general welfare of each State, if the dant and reciprocally defend and assist each people of each State love the people of each other State, and are mutually depenother-if the States stay in it willingly and of a choice, and not because they cannot secede, why then it is, indeed, a glorious Union. And on the contrary, if these are not the bonds of the Union, if fear alone preserves it, why then its glory has de-parted, and this talk about the "Union ought to be preserved" on account of its "glory" is mere nonsense.

Now that we have proved that we have nuch to hope and nothing to fear from the establishment of the principle of secession, let us give it a thorough and impartial investigation, to see whether it is founded in truth and justice.
To us, the fact that it would be produce

tive of good and destructive of evil, is conclusive proof that it has truth and justice for its foundation. The only test we have of the correctness of any principle, is its fruits or utility. If the practical results of a principle are permanent good to so ciety, it cannot be false, and if its practical results are evil, it cannot be true.

Some go so far as to say that the Union is irrevocable, that its bonds can, according to the rules prescribed in the Constitution be altered, improved, and amended, but not destroyed. In order to maintain this position, we would have to deny the right of the people to dissolve the Union, even if every man, woman, and child in every State desired such a thing. Now to say that all the people of a nation caunot, and have not the right to do what they want to do, and what is essential to their happiness, not irrevocable; and if it is not irrevocable, not irrevocable; and if it is not irrevocable, three-fourths can dissolve it whether the minority desire such a thing or not.

wo-thirds of the States can, and have a right to dissolve the Union, they can and have a right to expel a State for the same reasons; because, for twenty-five States to go out of the Union with the Constitution. is equivalent to an expulsion of eight States that they left; and if two-thirds of the States have a right, and can expel a State, a State has a right to secede, because plies a right and power on the part of a nember to withdraw. Those who contend that the Union is irrevocable, and most bitterly oppose the right of secession, admit the right to revontion is inherent in the people of each State, and in doing so they admit the right t secession; because if a State has a right to go out of the Union by revolution, no power on earth has a right to prevent, or force it back. If we say that a man has a right to do a thing, and that another has a right to prevent him, if he can, we assert two propositions which are inconsistent with each other, and of course both cannot be true, because all truth is consistent. So re see that those who deny the right of secession under all circumstances, must deny the right of revolution also.

The plea that those who made the Unic did not intend that is should ever be dis-solved, because they did not provide for such a contingency, does not militate in the least against the right of secession Suppose that, instead of pretermitting all notice of this question, the framers of the Constitution had put in it a clause to the effect that no State, at any time, and for any cause, after entering the Union, shall go out again, either with or without the onsent of the other States, of what conse mence would the fact be as an argumen gainst the right of secession? They had no right to do such a thing, and if they had done it, we would not be bound by it. The framers of the Constitution bad no right o make a Union for us of whom they knew othing, and whose circumstances they could not even conjecture. Each general ion must be left free to make Unions and legislate for itself, because each generation knows best its own wants, and what will promote its welfare. It is for the living that Unions and laws are made, and not for the dead; and, consequently, the latter should have no say in the matter. "The dead can leave us as much advice as they please, but they cannot leave us commands," "In every year, and every day of that year, living men have a right to make their own laws and manage heir own affairs; to break through the ty anny of ante-spirants-the people who breathed before them-and to do what they please for themselves." The circumstances of the world and of nations are onstantly varying, and the people are forced of a necessity to change their laws to suit their circumstances. What is expedient at one time is inexpedient at an other; and that which is wise and wholeome law at one time, is foolish and pre judicial at another. As the world grows older, the experience of the people is multiplied, their knowledge of human na ure increased, and their laws, as a matter of course, are better calculated to effect the objects contemplated. The people of South Carolina, in 1790 had a right for the purpose of bettering their condition to enter the Union and be come a part of the United States; but they did not have any right to say the people of South Carolina, in all time to come, and under all circumstances, shall stay in the Union; for they knew nothing of the future ircumstances of South Carolina and of her sister States. When the people of South Carolina ratified the Constitution, they acted as their circumstances dictated out if they could have lifted the veil from he future, and seen the troubles in which would involve their prosperity, they ever would have entered it, and what right have the people of one generation to oind the people of the following generation to do that which they themselves would not do if they knew the circumstances? No one will question the right of the people of South Carolina, in 1790, to enter the Union if they deemed it essential to their peace, wealth, prosperity and happiness. If the people of South Carolina of this day have not a right to go out of the Union, for the same reasons they have less rights than their ancestors, which is not so, because the rights of the people never The people of each State and of all times have a right to "life, lib-erty and the pursuit of happiness;" and the acts of those ancestors do not impair his right in the least. It may be said, as it has been said, that the people of South Carolina in 1790 were independent, and free to act as they pleased, and as their inrest dictated, and that on entering the Union they surrendered their independence and freedom, and that, consequently, the people of South Carolina of the present day have not the independence and rights heir ancestors had before the State became part of the Union, But this would involve he absurdity already noticed, that the people of a State have less right at one ne than another, and that one generation has the right to say what right shall be enoyed by the succeeding one.

Some men, in arguing against the right of secession, compare the Union to a con-tract made between three or more individnals. They say that if a number of person bind themselves in writing to perform cerain acts, one has no right to fly from or reak the agreement unices all parties are willing, which is true; but this does not make the two cases parallel, and unless they are parallel, we cannot prove anything against one by the other. In order for the two cases to be parallel, a contract made between three or more persons would have to be binding on their chillren, which everybody knows is not so Those who made the Union were bound by it, and had no right to dissolve it withut the consent of all parties; but after their death their children could dissolve it. whether all parties were willing or not, for he simple reason they did not make it. It is said that a majority of the people of a nation have a right to rule under all reumstances; and this is a point on which we wish to make a few explanaory remarks. Many absurd and injudicious laws to one part of a nation have been defended on this ground. We say, 00, a majority have a right to rule, but not inder all circumstances. When the majority and minority are locally and geographically intermixed, the former ought to rule and have their way; but when the two are locally and geographically sundered, we deny them this right. For instance, if majority of the people of each State want to pass a law, they have a right to pass it, in spite of the remonstances of the minority; but if all the people of all the Northern States want to pass a law, because it would add immensely to their wealth and happiness, and if all the people of all the Southern States were opposed to t because it would drain them of their wealth and retard their prosperty, the former would have no right to pass it, and PROGRESS.

compel the latter to obey it. We didn't intend to misrepresen the Journal. We don't want at any time o misrepresent it. Should we do so, brough any misapprehension of its posiion, on our part, or for any other reason, we will promptly make the amende. It says our statement that it "does not de nand of the North any retracement of the course they have pursued," is, not only a 'misrepresentation," but "an unpardonable" one. It may be right. It is barely possible we were mistaken. But, much s we respect it, we can't take its word for it this time. We have read in its columns, day after day, its denunciations of South Carolina and the Cotton States, of "fire eaters," "secessionists," and "disunionists;" we have witnessed its repeated assaults on others who are now "demanding" efficient guarantees for the protection o their rights; but, though we have heard it expostulate in tones of great tenderness with the violators of the Constitution and the enemies of a constitutional Union in the North, we are entirely innocent of any knowledge of its having "demanded" of the North a "retracement" of that course, which, marked by want of comity, bad faith, perfidy, and perjury, has driven the South into the position they now occupy, and which they can abandon only by leavhappiness, and honor. BOARDING.

YESTERDAY NOON'S DISPATCHES South Carolina Convention.

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 17.—The Convention had four ballots for a permanent President. On the third ballot Gov. Gist received 38, ex-Senator Chesnut 17, ex-Speaker Orr 32, Mr. Jameson 64, with some few scattering. On the fourth ballot Mr. Jameson received 118 votes, ex-Speaker Orr 39, scattering 8. Mr. Jameson, on taking the chair, said he had not language to express his thanks for the honor conferred upon him in making him the presiding officer over the deliberations of this Convention. He considered that the Convention was engaged in a most important duty—the most important that had ever devolved on South Carolina. God only knows what will be the result of our proceedings, but he would implore God's protection for the State.

A resolution was then offered that when the Convention adjourn it be to meet in Charluston at 4 o'clock P. M. to-morrow.

This resolution caused considerable debate.

Mr. Miles appealed to the Convention South Carolina Convention.

This resolution caused considerable debate.

Mr. Miles appealed to the Convention not to adjourn to Charleston, but to remain here regardless of the small-pox or other physical or moral causes, and discharge the duties required by South Carolina. He urged that other States would jeer at their timidity in the present crisis, and that the moral power of the present movement would be affected in other sympathizing States if we adjourn to Charleston.

Mr. Cochran, of Abbeyville, said he would never consent to leave Columbia until the ordinance of secession was passed, and urged members to stand up to all the responsibilities of their position and remain and perfect their work.

Mr. Keitt said he was as ardently devoted to secession as any man, and determined to be with the Convention until their action was complete, but urged their adjourning to Charleston. He said he never would consent to hurry through the proceedings of the Convention, and gave notice that no ordinance could be passed with his consent until every point was duly considered.

Others engaged in the discussion pro and con.

The motion to adjourn to Charleston con.

The motion to adjourn to Charleston was finally earried by a large majority.

Resolutions were adopted inviting the Commissioners from Mississippi and Alabama to seats on the floor; also, that they address the Convention to night at 7 o'clock.

A motion was made inviting Hon. Howell Cobb to a seat on the stand. Some members objected, and thought it would be expressing complimentary terms to Mr. Cobb that were not accorded to the Commissioners.

The motion to tender a seat prevailed with a few dissenting voices.

The Convention reassembled at seven o'clock P. M., with the Hon. J. F. Jamison, President, in the Chair. Mr. Inglis introduced a resolution that a committee of members be appointed to draft an ordinance proper to be adopted by this Convention. If any metaber of this Convention had any draft or scheme, he requested him to hand the same in without delay to said committee. Resolved, That the acts of the General As-embly of this State providing for the as embling of this Convention be referred to the same committee, with instructions act thereon.

The President then named a clerk, messenger, and doorkeeper.

Ex-Governor Adams here introduced to the Convention the Commissioners from Alabama and Mississippi. The Commissioner from Alabama spoke first, and the Commissioner from Mississippi next. Both speeches were moderate in tone, and principally went to show that they, the Commissioners, acted by the authority of the Governors of their respective States, and in accordance with the desire of a majority of the people of their States.

f the people of their States.

The first resolution was then adoptedayes, 159; nays, none.

In the second resolution Mr. Gadsburge moved to fill the blank with 21.

Mr. Rhett moved to amend by inserting "other matters for the consideration of the committee, or which may be presented to them." Mr. Barrett-The committee will have the right to report the whole subject; everything should be first submitted to the ommittee.

Mr. Inglis—The object will be accomplished without amendments.

Mr. Rhett said the committee can originate anything within itself; for instance, an address coming from any one of this body will have fair consideration.

Mr. Cheever—The great aim and object is to avoid every side of the question in which there may be a division. We have had proof this evening that there is a single voice within the State of South Carolina. Business is expedited by confining.

gle voice within the State of South Clina. Business is expedited by confir ourselves to secession. Our first object is to break the chain of this Union; the next point will be to study the point of direction.

Mr. Hayne—The proposition as I understand it is that a committee of twenty-one be appointed to take into consideration the various measures that may be introduced to the consideration of the Convention; that they should receive all such sehemes from whatever quarter they may come; they shall have the privileget od owhatever pertains to the business of the to secession. Our first obje schemes from whatever quarter they may come; they shall have the privilegeto do whatever pertains to the business of the Convention with a view of recommending it to this Convention. Whatever action they might think proper for consideration, or proposition for discussion among Secessionists, is a matter simply of the secession of South Carolina from the present Government. I take it there has been sufficient expression of opinion here upon this occasion to guide that committee. Secession is a subject upon which all agree unanimously. Let the committee be composed of great intellect.

Mr. Brady—Separate the work for separate committees; let there be a separate committee for the consideration of the question of what is executive authority and of what is citizenship. It is necessary to have the mass of the Convention actively at work; let each committee itself must not be divided in opinion. The convention will have enough to do to put things in proper shape. By referring different subjects to different committees there would be clashing.

Mr. Middleton—In Charleston it will be more difficult to get the majority of a large committee to acree than the metain recommittees to arrect than the metain recommittees the recommittees the present of a large committee to acree than the metain recommittees to arrect than the metain recommittees the recommitte more difficult to get the majority of a large committee to agree than the majority of a small committee. I trust the amendmen will not be agreed to.

Mr. Hudson moved to lay the amendment

Mr. Cheever moved to lay that motic on the table,
Mr. Withers—Some members of this co Mr. Withers—Some members of this convention are better adapted for one past than another. The agriculturists will not do to examine commercial statistics and their bearings, and vice versa. The convention had met to consider the pulling down of one Government and the building up of another, to determine our foreign and domestic relations, and matters about changing the Constitution of the State. Is it certain that the committee, no matter how able, can consider all and everything: I ask whether it is prudent to submit to the opinions of any one committees were appointed to expedite business. They are necessary to prevent the Convention from becoming a debating society. He advocated the amendment.

Mr. Ward's motion was carried, and the resolution adopted.

THE FOR

Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-One.

The events of the year before us will be fraught with a greater interest to the people of the whole country than those of the exciting period through which we have just passed—as thrilling in their nature and as important in their results as they have been. For the first time in the history of our country, a political party, purely and strictly sections has asset time in the history of our country, a poner-party, purely and strictly sectional, has suc-ceeded in electing the Chief Executive officer of the nation, and thus obtained control of one department of the Federal Government. This was alarmed the people of the other section, and has alarmed the people of the other section, and precipitated movements looking to a dissolu-tion of the valon. The whole country—and the people of all the States alike -are deeply and people of an the states since—are deeply and equally interested in "hat concerns the welfare of every American citizen, whether in the North or the South, and whicher at home or abroad. We are evidently surrounded by perila-of no ordinary magnitude—dangers that may burst upon us in all their terrible reality at any hour. No man worthy of liberty can rest in unconcerned ignorance of events now daily op-curring in all parts of the country; and a knowledge of these matters can best be obtained through such a newspaper as the WEEKLY LOUISVILLE COURIER. Nor are these the only things now transpiring. or about to transpire, in which our people must take deep interest. On the First Monday in CONGRESS WILL ASCEMBLE, And never, in the history of the country, has nore important duties dovoived upon the Rep. resentatives of the people. Many fear it will be the last Congress of the United States of North America. At any rate, the next session of that body will be one of great interest and its proceedings will be watched with much anxi-ety. Full telegraphic reports and other relia-ble information will be laid promptly before the readers of the LOUISVILLE COURSES.

During the Next Year, ABRADAM LINCOLN will be inaugurated President of the United States, or of a portion of them, and a new noticy will control the country. In the event of a secession of a portion of the Southern States, it may be that those who opposed the war with Mexico, and would have "welcomed our gatlant soldiers with bloody hands to hospitable graves," will attempt to drive them back at the point of the bayonet. Civil war, desperate, bloody, may follow. It will be our province to nd those who subscribe to it can rely on being better and more fully informed than those who

The loss saturday, the 15th, it appears that our information in regard to certain boatmen being notified to leave the South was not wholly correct. In this connection we will here take occasion to state, as we understand it, that the main reason that the Cincinnati boatmen have laid their boats up, is the refusal of Cincinnati merchants to ship at the prevailing tariff rates, if such is the fact, we hope none of our boatmen will take Cincinnati freights at any rate. They should patronize their own boats. The following extract is in reference to the paragraph in the Courier stating that Capt. "Konnz" and the Argule's officers were notified to leave:

There was a good demand for Mess Pork at the advance established yesterday, but the sales were limited as holders were not willing to sell much at that price, and a small lot was sold at $16. At the close the market was very firm, and most of the packers were holding at $16, but we think that lots could yet be purchased at $15.50, cash. The news from abroad is encouraging, and our dealers are looking for a large demand from New Orleans, as that market is bare with a heavy demand. The sales of Pork to-day were 500 bbis at $15.50, and 70 bbis at $16. Should the news to-night be as encouraging as it was at noon not one barrel of Pork can be bought here to-morrow morning for less than $16. The demand for Bacon continues moderate as parties are ordering only in small lots as they are compelled to use it. The sales to-day were small, but the market closed firm at $10, and 12c for Shoulders, Rib, and clear Sides. All the sales of Bacon now being made are of the new crop as the old stock has been entirely exhausted for some time past. There is nothing Joing in Green or Bulk Meats, and it is impossible for us to give accurate quotations. That is a big load of sweets.

The New York Times of Saturday says of money matters:

Financially the view of the market te day is decidedly good. The improvement in the tone of money and exchange affairs noticed yesterday, has resulted in a larger business in mercantile paper and in bills on England. The banks at their discount sessions this morning, took a large proportion of their offerings, in some instances all that was offered within bank rule as to date, and outside of bank improved currency was given to first class paper at from 12@18 2½. In exchange operations were much hearier in amount than for several mails past. Some of the English shippers of gold by the Europa caused their correspondents here to be advised by telegraph from Halfax of the amount on board, with a view to the purchase of return exchange in advance of the actual receipts of gold, and this, in some instances was done to day. The advance in bank and bankers bills, on actual sales, is about 12%, or on merchant bills from 162 29%. The former 164 2600, closing at 1004.005, the latter 10162 and 1000 a yesterday in charge of that true and tried boatman, Captain C. V. Wells, of the old Union Line. Armstrong.

The Planter was built expressly for the New Orleans, Yazoo, and tributaries, with ample capacity for 2,200 bales of cotton. She has cabin accommodations for fifty passengers, and a good model, and power sufficient to make her a lively boat. The boat is 160 feet in length, with 36 feet beam, 28 feet floor, and 6½ feet hold. She has two engines 20 inches in diameter, with 6 feet stroke, and her water wheel shafts are made of wrought iron. The engineer is James Phillips, a scientific bostman. He just up the machinery. Her boilers have each 24 flues, all five inches in diameter, excepting one. That is only three inches in diameter.

FOR MEMPHIS .- The Sam Kirkman is ng for Memphis, and is advertised for evening. She is at the city wharf.

In the early part of the week there was the In the early part of the week there was the deepest depression in both commercial and financial affairs, but toward the close we had to note a more cheerful feeling among the commercial community, and money matters assumed more case. The advices received by the Europa were more favorable than was generally looked for, and foreign exchange, as a matter of course, improved. It is anticipated that before the first of January, 1861, the influx of specie from the other side will amount to fully $5,000,000. Our banks throughout the week have done everything in their power to accommodate their regular customers, consequently there has been very little first classyaper forced upon the street. We quote the street rates for first class single name paper at 1% $6, and prime indorsed ditto at 1 $6. Exchange or. New York is easier, and we quote the rate to day at 2½ $63 $26.

They took the goods ay without objecting to the bill for freight debarges, and afterwards paid the freight, trefused to pay the charges, amounting to 93, which the boat had paid on the goods can she received them at Louisville. Monetary affairs are improving, and the jn-quiry for capital on the street is not as strong as a week ago, but the rates are unchanged-the rates being 1621/2 29 for the best short ob-ligations. Second class and renewed paper is universally neglected. The general disposi-tion among the merchants to square up old ac-counts before the commencement of the new year, rather than open new ones, tends to ma-terially curtail operations, and there is but lit-tle new paper being created. Wednesday night the steamer Goody Friends, bound from this port to Cincinnati, and the South Bend, bound from Circinnati and the salve this city. The usual signals were given, but the Goody Friends, we understand, indied to answer properly. The two boats rapidly hearred each other, and when within a short distance, the mate of the South Bend called to the pilot of the Goody Friends to back his boat. The only reply he received way. The New Orleans Picaynne of Saturday says:

At the close of our last weekly summary the market was depressed and gloomy, but within the past few days there are evidences of a hetter feeling, based partly on the impression that the reaction on the other side will prove less severe than was apprehended. Up to this time, it is true, we have hardly any response to our troubles, but there is evidently less uncasiness as to the result.

The money market is not in a condition as yet to sympathize with these shades of opinion. There is no outside demand for either paper or securities, though now and then a small negotiation is effected on terms it would be useless to mention. The banks discount very little new paper, but are extending all facilities that may be desired in the way of renewals. A good deal of specie has come in this week, and the statement to-morrow ought to show nearly twelve millions of coin.

The exchange market is decidedly better. Today again there was a good demand for sterling, and the transactions hardly fell short of £100,000.

Second. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery in the States permitting Third. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, while it exists in Maryland or Virginia, or in either of those States. Nor shall Congress at any time prohibit the officers of the Government or members of Congress, whose duties require them to live in the District of Columbia, from bringing slaves there and holding them as such.

Fourth, Congress shall have no power o hinder the transportation of slaves from ne State to another by land, navigable ivers, or sea. Fifth. Congress shall have power by law

Fifth. Congress shall have power by law to pay an owner, who shall apply, to the full value of a fugitive slave, in all cases where the marshal is prevented from discharging his duty by force or rescue made after arrest. In all such cases the owner shall have power to such the county in which the violence or rescue was made, and the county shall have the right to such the individuals who committed the wrong, in the same manner as the owner could sue.

Sixth. No future amendment or amendments shall affect the preceding articles—and Congress shall never have power to interfere with slavery within the States where it is now permitted.

The last resolution declares that the Southern States have a right to the faithful execution of the law for the recovery of siaves, and such laws ought not to be repealed or modified so as to impair their efficiency. As to all laws in conflict with the Fugitive Slave Law, it shall not be improper for Congress to ask their repeal. The Fugitive Slave Law ought to be so altered as to make the fee of the Commissioner equal, whether he decided for or against the claimant; and the clause authorizing the person holding the warrant to summon a posse constants to be modified so as to restrict it to cases where violence or rescue is attempted. The laws for the suppression of the African slave trade ought to be effectually executed.

ext. Mr. Powell's resolution was taken up. Mr. Powell's resolution was taken up, and after the discussion of points of order, Mr. Johnson, of Tennessee, yielded the floor to Mr. Hale.

Mr. Hale said he simply rose to say that, whatever he thought of the practicability of the resolutions of the Senator from Kentucky, he had no doubt about the purity of his motives, and integrity, and the disinterested fervor of his patriotism, but the Senator from Louisians (Mr. Benjamin) asked what was meant by the amendments of the Senator from New York, (Mr. King) and he now rose to ask ork, (Mr. King) and he now rose to ask or information.

He had listened to the long and able, but reatic speech of the Senator from Texas (Mr. Wigfall), who seemed explicit in his demands, but the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. Crittenden) seemed of an entirely different seet of politics. The demands put forth to-day were entirely different from those of the honorable Senator from Texas. His desire was to know which represented the demands to be made upon our people. He wanted to know whether the Senator from Kentucky represented the views of the people of that State, or whether his opinions were simply the effusion of his own patriotic heart; and whether the people of Texas are really represented by the Senator from that State. He really would like to know which of these

He asked the Senator from New Hampshire if he was willing to do so, and urge his people to accept them?

Mr. Hale said: Not to the full extent, though he liked many things. He had listened to the denunciations of a geographical line so lorg that he could not suddenly become a convert. He would wat for some assurance that the line would be kept. He did not believe the remedy laid in new provisions, but a prompt and faithful execution of things already in existence. He would agree to anything just and fair. He would not pledge his people. He thought they had given the pledge of fidelity and would give it still. He thought the gentleman too prome to throw the blame on the Republican party, and make that the pack-horse of all evils, present and future. He feared they would be under the ban, when he had been so publicly disfranchised as to be unworthy to be on the committee. He supposed his speech would be called inflaming, but the question would not be settled here, but would be settled by the voice of the public opinion of all Christendom. Washington, Dec. 18.—The bill amendatory of the Pacific Telegraph, introduced by Mr. Ely, proposes to expand the time for completion to the 1st of December, 1863. It allows the Company to build or remove their line upon any railroad which may be constructed by the United States Government, from any point of the Mississippi valley to the Pacific. Should the Company issue bonds and sell the same, the Government if required, is authorized to pay the amount of subsidy to the Telegraph Co., but not the discharge of the coupons to said bids.

The House Select Committee of Thirty-three referred to a sub-committee, consisting of the members from the border slave States, the amendment proposed from the Southern side to the Fugitive Slave Law. It is said in unusually reliable circles that a strong movement is going on in the border States, upon both sides of Mason & Dixon's line, for a great middle confederacy, to be called the Central United States, or the Federal Republic of Washington, including New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the southwest upon one side, and Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri upon the other.

The Democratic members of the Chiedelgation, at the conference of the delegation from that State last night, took particular pains not to commit themselves to any measure contemplating coercion, believing that this would result in civil war, not to the support of Mr. Lincoln. They say that the conference was not devoted to the consideration of measures of adjustment to save the Union, as they had been led to expect.

Charlestor, Dec. 18.—The members of the convention and Lagislature reached this city at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and were greeted at the depot with a salute of fifteen gins. The salute was fired by the Marion Artillery. The company were in line in two and a half hours after the first member had received notice to turn out.—The fifteen gins fired were for the Southern States.

At the railroad depot, the battalion of the State Cadets, under Major Stevens, were drawn up. On the arrival of the train, the order was given to open ranks so that the delegates could pass through the files. Major Stevens mothed the platform and greeted Gen. Jamison, the President of the Convention, as follows:

"Mr. President: On learning that the Convention of South Carolina was about coming here, I could not resist the impulse of my heart to bring out Young Carolina, as represented here by the battalion of State Cadets, to do honor to the sovereignty of the State. We will now escort you to foilr residence. General, take my arm."

The military then escorted him to the Mills House. Judge Magrath rode in a carriage with General Jamison. On arriving at the House, the military presented arms. General Jamison uncovered his head and turning to Maj. Stevens, said: "Maj. Stevens and soldiers, allow me, in the name of the Convention, to thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me and the Convention in this event. You will at once perceive the propriety that on and the Convention in this event. You will at once perceive the propriety that on this occasion I should say no more than this, that in coming to your ancient and honored city, the Convention comes prepared to sign an ordinance which is to make this State free and independent." At the conclusion of his speech he was greeted with three cheers, as was the others.

The Convention met at 4 o'clock, this P. M., at Institute Hall. About 150 members were present, and the galleries contained about 700 spectators.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Floran. Mr. Rhett's resolution, that a committee be appointed to prepare an address to the people of the Southern States, was amended by inserting seven members, and was adopted.

The Pacific Railroad bill was then taken up. Mr. Branch raised the point that its first consideration should be in the Committee of the Whole, as it contained mater of the nature of money appropriated. The question was debated. The Speaker decided that the twelfth section of the bill provides for bonds to be issued to the amount of sixty million dollars, payable at the Treasury, and redeemable in thirty years; this was certainly an appropriation. therefore the bill must go to the Committee of the Whole. The House then went into a Committee. Considerable time was consumed in laying aside numerous bills which preceded the Pacific Railroad bill on the callender, the opponents of the bill refusing to take it up immediately and independent of the others. When the bill for granting lands for the Nebraska Railroad was reached, they proceeded to consider it, and without making much headway on it, the Committee rose.
